

CAPTAIN AND HIS COOK SAVED FROM THE WRECK

Were Twelve Hours on the Foreboom—The Schooner, Which Was Wrecked Near Saybrook, Has Three Quarters Full of Water—The Vessel Has Aboard 250 Cords of Wood.

Saybrook Point, Dec. 2.—After sitting astride the foreboom for twelve hours Captain Lee and his cook of the wrecked schooner Addie Jordan were taken off at 3 o'clock this morning by Captain Joseph Smith, of the Duck Island Light, and was none the worse for their trying experience.

The schooner remains full of water three quarters of a mile east of the East Breakwater off this point, and as the sea has gone down it is likely that she will be hauled off with little damage. Captain Lee in an interview to-day said: "We had 250 cords of wood aboard, and had a good trip up from Norfolk. I saw the Saybrook light and under the impression that it was New London I had the vessel headed in. After picking up the coast line yesterday morning I found out that I had mistaken the light and before the Jordan could be headed off shore she had drifted on to Saybrook Bar. I reckon we would have been all right had we not sprung a leak just when we were trying to keep down by mowing both pumps. The wind came up and at daybreak the seas began to break over the decks. Several of the crew took to the small boat, while the cook and myself stayed aboard. In the afternoon we would take to the foreboom which would not have been very uncomfortable had we been dry. Captain Smith came off this morning and took us ashore. I do not yet know whether the Jordan will be saved or not, but as the sea is calm the chances are good. The vessel is owned by R. W. Hutchins of Norfolk who bought her for the hills after she sank in the Delaware some time ago. This was the first trip of the Jordan since she was repaired."

Captain Smith who saved the two men is a veteran at this work. He has a gasoline launch which he has kept inside the bar at Grove Beach. Last summer he tried to have the government build him a shelter on the beach in which he could keep his launch. Had he had such a shelter he could have taken off the men early yesterday as he would not have had to wait for the tide over the bar off Westbrook.

The cars correspond in type to the regular chemical engine in use in the city fire department. Four of them are stationed at the terminals of the four branches of the elevated road.

In a trial given in the presence of members of the Chicago Fire Underwriters' association and the officials of the elevated road company, the speed and efficiency of the fire cars were demonstrated. After a run of one mile a fire was extinguished within six minutes after the alarm was sounded.

The equipment of the fire cars consists of two 100-gallon tanks of chemical solution and two lines of hose, each 150 feet long. In addition a large nozzle containing 200 more gallons of solution is carried on each car. Two trained men compose the crew of each car.

THE MAGNUS RAPIER.

Jacob Scherffus Sent President a Fifteenth Century Sword.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Roosevelt has been presented with a fine rapier of fifteenth century make by Representative James Tawney of Minnesota. Mr. Tawney made the presentation on behalf of Jacob Scherffus of Winona, Minn., a personal and political admirer of the president.

The rapier became the property of the Magnus family of Bavaria in the fifteenth century and was passed down to the eldest son of each generation until it finally reached Captain Leonard Magnus, a member of one of the New York volunteer regiments in the civil war. Captain Leonard Magnus had no son, and the rapier passed to his son-in-law, Mr. Scherffus.

As Mr. Scherffus has no son, he decided to present the rapier to the president. The weapon is beautifully engraved and bears the coat of arms of the Magnus family. The president requested Representative Tawney to express to Mr. Scherffus his sincere thanks for and appreciation of the gift.

Rumford, Falls, Me., Dec. 2.—Matthew Haines, an aged resident of Mexico, a small town a few miles north of Rumford Falls, and his wife were burned to death early to-day in a fire which destroyed their home and other buildings. The fire was caused by an explosion of illuminating gas and several other persons in the house had narrow escapes. Haines and his wife were each about 80 years of age. The property loss was several thousand dollars. The explosion was in a private gas plant in the cellar of the Haines house. Mr. and Mrs. Haines were in the cellar at the time and Mrs. Haines was regulating the gas apparatus. The force of the explosion wrecked the house, causing the lower walls partly to fall in and the timbers from the lower floor to drop. During the few minutes before the building became a roaring furnace, neighbors reached the cellar and found Mr. and Mrs. Haines pinned down by the wall and timbers. Mrs. Haines was alive but before rescuers could reach her she was overcome by the burning gas. Her body was found two hours after the fire, horribly disfigured.

Mr. Haines, it is thought was instantly killed. When the body was extricated the beard had been burned off, the jaw and one leg was broken and a piece of wood pierced the other leg.

The house was a story and a half one and besides the Haines family was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McDowell and five children, all of whom escaped injuries.

GRANNY

Oldest Woman on Stage Dead.

Aged Actress Was Stricken in Chicago—Stroke of Apoplexy Was Followed By Death.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Mrs. George Henry Gilbert, the oldest actress on the American stage, died at her rooms at the Sherman house to-day, after she had suffered a stroke of apoplexy. She had been touring the eastern part of the country in a play entitled "Granny," written expressly for her.

Mrs. Gilbert was in Waterbury two weeks ago Wednesday night and was given an ovation that did her heart good. It was observed, however, that she was growing more feeble, having failed considerably since her last visit a year or two ago. After her last visit among other things the Democrat dramatic critic had the following to say:

"Delightful and pleasing old Mrs. Gilbert, 84 years of age, yet still gracing the theatrical stage, to which she has brought so much honor, was with us in Waterbury last evening, bidding her last farewell. Tears and applause, and very generous applause at that, commingled in perfect harmony. The tears would come in the midst of the applause, and the audience realized that this was the last time they would see this graceful old lady speak to them from the dramatic stage. As Mrs. Gilbert said in her epilogue, she would like to be a granny to the whole lot of them. It evidently struck those present that they were her grandsons and granddaughters. It was like one of those family gatherings on Thanksgiving or Christmas times and the granny of them all was speaking to them for the last time."

INTEREST STILL HIGH.

Although Mrs. Chadwick's Lawyers Are Warning Hard.

New York, Dec. 2.—While it has been officially announced that the claim of one of her largest creditors—the one whose suit brought about all the publicity given her affairs—would be satisfactorily settled, there was no diminution of interest to-day in the case of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, the Cleveland woman whose financial affairs have furnished a series of sensational almost unparaphrased. The claim of Herbert D. Newton, the Brookline, Mass., man, for nearly $50,000, which apparently has been removed from further consideration, according to a statement of Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys, was only an incident. Other claims still pending are known to aggregate four times that amount, they say, and for all they know may total one hundred times the sum named by Newton. Many of the claims against her, the attorneys say, have no basis in fact and the claims will be shown to be fraudulent at the proper time. "That all the just debts will be met they still maintain and at the same time make the announcement that Mrs. Chadwick will still have millions left when all her creditors have been satisfied."

Mrs. Chadwick is still in her suite of rooms at the Holland house, but she has notified the management that she will give up her rooms either to-day or to-morrow. It is believed that she will quit the city to-morrow, when she will go either to her home in Cleveland or to be present at the hearing on an application for a receiver for her property, or else she will travel south. It is said that she has engaged a private car for her journey. Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys had promised that she would make public either to-day or to-morrow a general statement covering every phase of the case from her viewpoint. This statement was expected to throw light on many points now involved in mystery and was anxiously awaited.

BY DECOY LETTERS

RUSSIANS TRIED TO GET BACK THE HILL

Had a Strong Attacking Force But Were Repulsed With Heavy Loss—Many Japanese Officers Killed in the Engagements of the Past Few Weeks—Story of the Attack With Swords.

Tokio, Dec. 2.—It is reported here that the Russians have attempted to retake 208-Meter hill. They assembled a strong force and assaulted the position, but were repulsed with heavy loss. The Japanese, finding sailors among the Russian dead, believe that if men from the fleet are being employed in making sorties the complement of the force must be falling short. The fact that the Russians are fortifying the positions available between Linot and Mantai mountains increases the belief that they will make their last stand there.

The fighting was short and sharp. The Japanese burned their supply depots in three villages and retreated pursued by Cossacks so far as the Taitse river. The Japanese losses were about 50 killed and 100 wounded. The Cossacks destroyed a Japanese telegraph line and occupied the village of Bur-dun (about seven and one-half miles southeast of Tsin-khetchen).

MANY OFFICERS KILLED.

Tokio, Dec. 2. (U. S. M.)—Imperial headquarters make the announcement that seventeen officers have been killed and sixty-four wounded in the field, but does not mention the place. It is presumed that it was at Port Arthur.

The details of the attack of the swordsmen at Port Arthur are unknown here, and a difference of opinion exists as to whether any of the attacking parties were armed exclusively with swords. Possibly many of the soldiers carried swords in addition to their bayonets, for the Japanese retain much respect for the sword and continue training with it despite the opposition of the officers of the newer school. The results of this sword attack were evidently negative. The wounded leg of General Nakamura has been amputated. The party of General Saito retired and did not press the attack.

President Robert Emory was seen a few minutes later and stated that the German-American bank had about $800,000 in available currency and within twenty-four hours could have $2,500,000.

WON THE GLENWOOD.

Mrs. Katie Hill, of 88 North Elm Street.

The handsome Glenwood Range and High Shelf that has been in the Democrat window as a prize to those counting Glenwoods in this space was awarded last night to Mrs. Katie Hill, 88 North Elm street, who gave the correct number of 272. Charles D. Nye, president of the Waterbury Business Men's association, assisted by Mr. Jacob Kaiser of the Driggs & Smith Company, made the award. Upwards of seven hundred answers were sent in, varying from 41 to 352. Mrs. Hill's envelope was the seventeenth one opened up before the correct one was received. The contest was run for two months and it was a test of perseverance to keep the count correctly. For the benefit of those who wonder how they were mistaken, the
